DUBLIN, March 25, 2021 /PRNewswire/ -- Today, Alkermes plc (Nasdaq: ALKS) will host a virtual Investor Day to discuss the company's research and development strategy and portfolio, including updates from its nemvaleukin alfa clinical program and new preclinical neuroscience and immunology programs. The company will also provide an update on the implementation of its Value Enhancement Plan announced in December 2020.

"We have reimagined and refocused our approach to research and development. We are leveraging our advanced medicinal chemistry and protein engineering capabilities to develop innovative medicines that we believe have a clear value proposition – medicines that have a strong underlying biological rationale and target clear unmet patient need. Nemvaleukin is one of the first demonstrations of this new strategy and the accumulating data from the development program has continued to support its potential utility in difficult-to-treat tumor types," said Richard Pops, Chief Executive Officer of Alkermes. "The innovation happening within our R&D portfolio is complemented by an equal focus on driving value creation for shareholders through our efforts to deliver growth, efficiency and profitability."

The Investor Day presentations will feature the following topics and speakers:
